ABOUT ME

An innovative frontend developer with the big enough notes of backend developing, big knowledge in SYS activity. I do like and enjoy learning something new, especially if it concerns to technologies or programming. I am keen to build up a career of a web programmer. I have been studying English for about 8 years. I had moderate experience with representatives of this language on any topics. At one time, my comrades and I organized a store entirely in English (except for the admin panel). There is experience in teamwork. Managing responsibilities and delivering projects on time.
